MPU receives global accreditation for quality education

Successful Accreditation and International Quality Review

In 2022, Macao Polytechnic University (MPU) receives global accreditation for its quality education through a successful International Quality Review by the Quality Assurance Agency for Higher Education (QAA), UK, with the areas of student research and talent cultivation being recognised as good practices. The review took place alongside a successful Institutional Accreditation as stipulated by the Macao higher education law, recognising MPU's multidisciplinary education and its high standard of scholarship in both teaching and applied research. This global accreditation not only enriches the University's international profile but also strengthens the global impact of Macao higher education.

The accreditation was conducted by the QAA, a global leader in higher education quality assurance, after a comprehensive review in areas such as academic strengths, research capabilities and talent cultivation. Their review findings indicate that MPU meets international standards across all its academic areas, such as education, arts, languages, social and behavioural sciences, business and administration, information and communication technologies, health sciences, social services, sports, tourism and recreation management. In particular, two good practices are recognised in light of MPU's student research and innovation as well as its comprehensive talent cultivation model. This, once again, demonstrates MPU's internationally recognised strengths in student-centred quality education.

Being the pioneer in higher education quality assurance in Macao, MPU has been assuring its education provision through academic reviews since 2006. MPU is the first higher education institution in Asia having a successful institutional review by QAA in 2013. This 2022 accreditation serves as a revalidation of MPU's quality education. It demonstrates that MPU has met all 10 standards set out by the European Higher Education Area for universities across Europe, adhering to MPU's long-standing commitment to international benchmarking and continuous quality enhancement.

In pursuance of excellence, MPU is proactive in optimising its educational quality through academic review and accreditation. Its education provision and its commitment to quality teaching and learning have been widely acclaimed by various authoritative quality assurance bodies and professional institutions across the globe.
